Subscriptions

Your subscription service will begin as soon as your initial payment is processed. The subscription will be automatically renewed until you cancel. You will receive an email order confirmation detailing the subscription upon purchase and a confirmation email if the subscription plan is changed or canceled. For quarterly and annual subscription plans, you will receive email notification of the upcoming charge thirty (30) days prior to the applicable renewal date. You will be billed at the rate you select and that rate will not change while you are enrolled in that particular plan. You may select different subscription plans at any time, but once you purchase a particular rate you are locked in at the purchased rate until you change subscription plans. Your credit card will be charged immediately when successfully submitted. It is then billed at the designated cycle per your subscription (monthly, quarterly, yearly). Billing dates are associated with the date of purchase, not a static date such as the 1st or 15th of a given month. You will also have the option to create custom plans that may be handled outside of our standard subscription processing model. You may cancel one or more subscriptions at any time by accessing your Project Management page and either removing an API or deleting the Project entirely. You may also manually cancel subscriptions by contacting Mastercard API Support. All cancellations will trigger a prorated refund, except for custom subscription plans. Once a subscription is cancelled, effective immediately your key will no longer have access to the canceled production service
